"A good book is the best of friends, the same today and forever"

PARITY, PARITY, PARITY

Parity is a balance concept - like an apothecary's scales. The balance in this case, of which John D. Black writes in his recent book, has three scale pans instead of two - one for Agriculture, one for Labor, and one for Capital. Each strives for its "share in the national income." With the welling tide between the three, the author must have felt throbbing through his brain much the same refrain as recurred in the mind of the old farmer in one of Tennyson's poems. The mind of the old man on his death-bed was still in the grip of the hard struggle he had waged to protect a little property. To his dazed mind, the fading-out cantering hoof-beats of his favorite horse seemed to say over and over again "Proputty, proputty, proputty - that's what I 'ears 'em saay." But since the basic facts and relations between farm prices, industrial wages and earnings of capital, from which the issue of parity derives, are of such pertinent interest, this book will continue to be of interest for years to come.

OLD MACDONALD HAD A FARM

When Angus McDonald was a small boy in Oklahoma, his father used to take him out over his farm, walk to the highest point, and outline its limits with broad sweeps of his arms. "That is our land, clear over to the end of that white oak grove." After his father's death, he wandered for 7 years about the United States and Mexico, working as a dishwasher, grocery clerk, ditch digger, salesman, and school teacher. Mr. McDonald is now in the Soil Conservation Service. He was persuaded to write this book about his father's farm by a group of his fellow-workers who were delighted with a sample article.

PRICE-MAKING IN A DEMOCRACY

Chapters from a forth-coming book of this title by E. G. Nourse have been published as separate pamphlets by Brookings Institution. Titles of some of these are: Areas of Applicability of Low-price Policy; Competition as Method and as Goal; Free Enterprise and Laissez Faire; The Profit Motive and "Maximum" Profits.

"WHAT CAN I DO?"

That is the question that so many people are asking themselves with reference to the war effort. It is also the title of a recent hand-book released by the Office of Civilian Defense. In eight chapters, under such headings as "What Professional Men and Women Can Do" and "Specific Jobs for Women," etc., this little illustrated pamphlet tells each one of us what we can do to help win the war. It tells how we can become a small fighting unit on the biggest front of all - the home front!

"LIBRARY NEWS"

Twice a month "Library News" will appear on a separate sheet attached to the FCA General Memorandum. In this way you will be kept informed as to new books or services. If there is a particular type of information in which you would be interested and which you would like to have reported, call ext. 54 and advise us of your needs.

ARMY ORIENTATION COURSE MAPS

A graphic picturization of the war news of the week is shown in a large 36" x 48" map which is changed weekly and posted over the reading table in the Library. Photographs and text in bold type portray at a glance the changes as they take place on world battle fronts.

A NEW PERIODICAL

Education for Victory is the new title of the official journal of the Office of Education. The journal covers twice each month Executive orders, pronouncements, war policies; new publications, films, posters, etc., useful to schools and libraries; and what schools, colleges, and libraries everywhere are doing to win the war. The FCA Library has been placed on the mailing list to receive this publication regularly.

If you desire library service, call ext. 211 for legal information; ext. 11 for books and reference material; ext. 207 for periodicals; and ext. 54 for administrative matters.

LIBRARY WAR SERVICE

LIBRARY WAR SERVICE

Libraries are doing much to help win the war. War industry is taking a tip from the chorus girl who had a book - only it is using many books. You have been reading about those electrically-heated aviators' suits. The type needle necessary for them was developed after research in the Bridgeport Public Library. Pratt Library in Baltimore made it possible for a factory to convert its carpet-making machinery into equipment for making army blankets. If magnesium is produced in quantity from seaweed, Houston Public Library furnished the research material. A ship "in jeopardy" off Nigeria wired for latitude and longitude of every northern port which had dry and floating docks. The message was received by an Oregon steamship office which got in touch with the Public Library. In a few minutes the information went over the radio. Information is required on the appearance of ships from the air, the force of waves in shallow water, the penetration of anti-aircraft shell splinters, and other vital questions - and libraries are turning out the answers.

LIBRARY OF DIRECTORIES

The Kansas City Chamber of Commerce maintains a library of from 130 to 140 city directories. A full file is maintained for cities in the midwestern district and scattering volumes for larger cities throughout the United States. The directory library is open for the use of FGA employees.

REFERENCE BOOKS NEW IN FGA LIBRARY

OTHER BOOKS OF INTEREST

Money and Banking, by Eugene E. Agger. 1941. 764p.
An authoritative textbook of 37 chapters. Chapter XVIII deals with specialized investment and credit organizations including land and mortgage banking and agricultural credit.

Our Landed Heritage, the Public Domain, 1776-1936, by Roy M. Robbins
This book presents perhaps the first attempt to integrate American land history with other forces that shaped our civilization. "Whenever social conditions tended to crystallize in the East, or capital tended to press upon labor or political restraints to impede the freedom of the mass, there was a gate of escape to the free conditions of the frontier. Free lands promoted individualism, freedom to rise, democracy... they meant opportunities." Such opportunities ended in 1935 when these lands were withdrawn from private entry. Only the permanent national domain, national parks, forest and game reserves, grazing and mineral lands, remained. The author thus felt the time was ripe for a history of the public lands of the United States.

NEW PUBLICATIONS IN THE LIBRARY ON THE LAND

Forward to the Land, by Elmer T. Peterson

Mr. Peterson is an author that feels deeply concerning the land. His slogan reverses the familiar "Back to the land" with an opposite point of view - forward to a new land economy, an economy not to be found in our own out-moded pioneer stage, but a reconstruction both urban and rural, away from present tendencies of national socialism, toward a "live-at-home-farming." He believes that real wealth is in production and that a change in policy should insure bountiful living to those who live on the land.

OFFICE MANAGEMENT, by George W. Darlington

A simply written, practical text that gives an impersonal, scientific attitude toward office problems. There is material on office layouts, the office efficiency audit, forms, manuals, and aptitude tests; physical elements including fluorescent lighting, radio intercommunication systems, plastic furniture, and air conditioning are also discussed.

PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS, by Dale Yoder

The most essential characteristic of effective personnel administration is its constant self-appraisal and evaluation. Policies and practices must be constantly scrutinized and weighed in terms of their appropriateness and effectiveness. This book, successor to Personnel and Labor Relations, accepts the challenge of both the problems and opportunities of modern industrial management. The many-sided relationships of labor-management are treated scientifically and comprehensively. Techniques of statistical material have been brought together at the end of each chapter in special sections.

LIBRARY NEWS

During the month of November, our thoughts turn in a very special way to Thanksgiving. Even in the midst of war, sorrow, and distress, we have much for which to be thankful.

Thanks, God, for a bed,
A roof o'erhead,
A window that faces
The sky.

A door with a latch
That is easy to catch
The hand of a friend
Passing by.

NOVEMBER MAGAZINE ARTICLES

Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature lists the 10 following selections, made by a council of librarians, as the outstanding ones for the month of November: Campaign in the Java Sea, by F. Pratt, Harper's Magazine; In defense of Congress, by C. A. Beard, American Mercury; Color: Unfinished Business of Democracy, Survey Graphic; Russia and the Future, by M. Lerner, Atlantic Monthly; Dangerous Myth About Japan, by N. Peffer, Asia; Hitler's Second Front, by T. H. Thomas, Atlantic Monthly; I was a Prisoner of the Japanese, by J. B. Powell, Reader's Digest; Horrors in Hong Kong, by G. Dew, American Mercury; Don't Forget the Dirigible! by C. L. Walker, Harper's Magazine; Twelve Things the War Will do to America, by Q. Howe, Harper's Magazine.

PERSONAL ESTATE PLANNING IN A CHANGING WORLD by Rene Wormser

A book designed for the layman - to teach the average man or woman to think of estate planning in terms of life planning. The future will bring serious difficulties in acquiring a substantial estate, in holding it reasonably intact and in passing it on to beneficiaries. Mr. Wormser,

IN THIS WAR, we know, books are weapons. And it is a part of your dedication always to make them weapons for man's freedom -- Franklin D. Roosevelt with his 21 years' legal experience treats of the coordinated use of trusts, life insurance, annuities, gifts, and going business interests in the planning of estates. The approach is philosophical, with an insistence on an understanding of objectives.

LIBRARY NEWS

The American Library Association has had posters printed to use with its exhibits that read: "This Is Our War: Let's Read About It."

An hour with a book would have brought to his mind
The secret that took him a whole year to find.
The facts that he learned at enormous expense
Were all on a library shelf to commence.
Alas! for our hero; too busy to read,
He was also too busy, it proved, to succeed.
We may win without credit, or backing, or style,
Without patience or aptitude, purpose or wit--
We may even succeed if we are lacking in grit;
But take it from me as a mighty safe hint,
A civilized man cannot win without print.

HAVE YOU READ

Food: A Weapon for Victory, by Bertram Fowler

The jacket of this book carries the legend that it has been published "because this is the first book to deal with the problem of food relief to starving nations after the war; because it argues that a master plan should be organized at once by the United Nations to carry out this relief; because it describes concretely what the master plan should be; and because it shows conclusively that the propaganda value of announcing such a plan to the occupied countries may be a potent weapon in winning this war."

Let Us Be About Our Work, an address by M. Clifford Townsend

In this address that was delivered in Madison, Wisconsin, on July 20, Mr. Townsend said: "General MacArthur's men on Bataan were not defeated. They were starved out. About all these men had to eat from early February until their surrender in April was rice and mule meat. The defenders of Bataan had to give up from sheer exhaustion. Of course, we had all kinds of food to send them, but it was simply impossible to get it there.

"That time it was a question of shipping, but imagine how we'd feel if some day such a battle would be lost because the food had not yet been produced. Or imagine how we'd feel if some day the people who are fighting our battle would have to starve to death because American farmers had fallen down on their job."

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

A BOOK ABOUT THE WAR

The Farm Citizen at War, by Howard R. Tolley.

1943. 318 p.

Deals with the men behind the men behind the guns - the farmers, and the rest of us, too. The book traces our Government's efforts to meet the needs of farmers, discusses some of the major problems of democracy in the modern world, and points the way to some workable solutions.

OTHER BOOKS ON WAR PROBLEMS

The Defense of Children Series: Children bear the promise of a better world. 1943. (11 pamphlets of the U. S. Children's Bureau)

Inflation. OWI. Dec. 1942. 6 p.

Manpower; a summary of British experiences, by Eric H. Biddle. 1942. 28 p. (Pub. Admin. Service Pamphlet No. 84)

Goals for America: A budget of our needs and resources. 1942. 106 p.

The Road We Are Traveling, 1914-1942. 1942. 106 p.

Both books are by Stuart Chase and in the author's words are "guide lines to America's future" as reported to the Twentieth Century Fund.

War and Peace Aims; extracts from statements of the United Nations leaders. 1943. 136 p.

YOUR VICTORY GARDEN

The New York Herald Tribune in its Sunday paper of March 21 published an annual garden section of 28 pages entitled "1943 Victory Gardens Unite Flowers and Vegetables." It is illustrated and contains many helpful suggestions that may aid you in your own present plans.

A NEW CENSUS VOLUME

Areas of the United States, 1940. 1942. 465 p.

The figures and maps in this volume represent the first basic measurement of the U. S. since 1880. They cover land and water areas of the States, countries, cities, and minor civil divisions, and are minutely detailed.

"WHO'S" WRITING "WHAT" FOR FCA<sup>1/</sup>

Fogelberg, Neptune. Cooperative marketing and processing of peaches in the southeast. Nov. 1942. 46 p. Mimeo. (Misc. Rept. No. 60)
Pertinent facts and tables on production, preservation by freezing dehydration, and canning, and marketing through cooperatives the peach crop of the southeast.

Hensley, Harry C., and Anne L. Gessner. More manpower for cooperative food processors. Mar. 1943. 9 p. Mimeo. (W.C. No. 7)
"Assurance that food processing plants will not be the weak link in food production chains demands active cooperation between food processors and Governmental agencies concerned with manpower problems." This circular should aid in crystallizing positive actions to alleviate manpower problems.

Herrmann, Louis F., and William C. Welden. Pre-war developments in milk distribution. Nov. 1942. 24 p. Mimeo. (Misc. Rept. No. 62)
Covers: Changes in channels of distribution, in container types and sizes, in types of milk, in prices.
Use of level production plan in milk marketing. Aug. 1942. 22 p. (Misc. Rept. No. 57)
Explains a quota plan used in the Janesville, Wisconsin, and other milk markets.

Hulbert, Lyman S. Legal phases of cooperative associations. rev. May 1942. 456 p. (Bul. No. 50)
Considerable legislation has been enacted directly affecting farmers' cooperative associations and many cases involving them have been passed upon by the courts during the last few decades. In the accumulation of more than 1,200 cases presented, much should be found of value to cooperatives and those charged with the duty of advising them in their business activities.

Knapp, Joseph G. Agricultural cooperation in the United States. In Yearbook of Agricultural Cooperation, 1942, pp. 137-171. London, The Horace Plunkett Foundation, 1942.
This 24-page article presents a general picture of agricultural cooperation in the United States under present-day war conditions.
Maintaining cooperative organization efficiency in wartime. Jan. 1943. Mimeo. 11 p.

Quitslund, Ford A. Wartime transportation of fruits and vegetables grown in Idaho, Oregon, and Washington. Dec. 1942. (W.C. No. 3)
Summarizes interviews with managers and officials of about 75 businesses engaged in processing and marketing fruits and vegetables in the area.

CIRCULATION LISTS

Sometimes circulation is slowed up considerably on such long lists as "Victory," "Kiplinger Letter," "Banking," etc., because in some offices supplementary lists are placed over the original routing slips. The first list has priority either because of official need or first requests to see the publication. So let the magazine "go through" promptly and the library will be glad to return it to you or place your name at the end of the list.

WORKING TOOLS

Do you know the present procedure in ordering your "working tools," books, and other published material that you need to keep in your office for constant reference? This information is contained in Department of Agriculture Library Circular No. 4, which you may borrow from the library. If further information is desired, call Paul L. Rapp who has been designated as bureau representative to approve FCA purchases and he will be glad to assist you.

PERSONNEL CHANGE

Miss Phoebe Norton who has come to us from the Public Library in St. Paul, is now serving at the periodical desk. If you wish to have your name placed on circulation lists or to ask questions dealing with periodicals, call her on extension 207.

LIBRARY REQUESTS

In making requests to the library for books, periodicals, and pamphlets, obtain request forms from the library. The following is a sample of the form, a supply of which may be had by calling Miss Achauer on extension 11.

Call No.		U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE LIBRARY REQUEST

This form card will be filed as a record of your pending requests until such time as the material is received and then will serve as a charge card when it is sent to you. By inaugurating short cuts in routine, the library is endeavoring to gain sufficient time to improve its service in the more important varied fields in which you are interested.

LOAN OF LIBRARY MATERIAL

USDA Regulation 1916. Library materials may be borrowed by employees from the Department Library or from any of its branches or other facilities for periods not longer than 1 month, and briefer periods of loan shall be set by the Department Librarian for those materials which are needed by others. Materials borrowed for a month may be renewed for an additional month upon the borrower's request if they are not needed by others. Any library material, regardless of the period for which loaned, is subject to recall by the Department Library for the use of others when the need for the material is urgent.

Employees borrowing library materials shall be held strictly accountable for their use, preservation, and safe return within the loan period. Failure to return library materials when due may result in the withdrawal of loan privileges. Failure to replace library materials lost or damaged or to make reimbursement therefor shall be reported by the Department Library to the chief of bureau concerned, who shall see that the record is cleared.

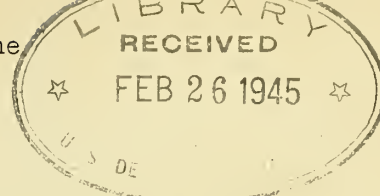

Any employee leaving his official station for more than 1 week shall immediately return any library material charged to him. No employee shall take library material from the station at which it was charged to him without first obtaining the permission of the Department Library or the branch from which it was borrowed.

Note: In accordance with Regulation 1915 an inventory is now being taken in the library and for that reason it is absolutely necessary that overdue material be returned.

NEW BOOKS IN THE LIBRARY

The Banking System and War Finance, by Charles R. Whittlesey. New York, National Bureau of Economic Research, 1943. 53 p. Occasional paper: 8. The first of several papers being developed on the subject of the effect of war on banking. Commercial banks, Federal reserve banks, and Treasury policy in time of war are discussed.

Wartime 'Prosperity' and the Future, by Wesley C. Mitchell. New York, National Bureau of Economic Research, 1943. 43 p. Occasional paper: 9. The economic implications of war, the characteristics of wartime expansions, and economic problems and the return of peace are concisely explained.

War Economics, by Jules Backman and others. New York, Farrar, 1942. 501 p. Chapter XIV, Agriculture and War, deals with general control methods, production adjustments in several warring countries, control of consumption, and the long-term adjustments necessitated by war.

Wartime Farm and Food Policy; a series of 15 or more bulletins published by The Iowa State College Press, 1943. Victory for the United Nations depends vitally upon the food-providing resources of this country. That is why the preparation of these bulletins has been undertaken - to provide unbiased facts concerning the problems of farm production and food distribution as well as plans for future agricultural policy. The first eight bulletins to be received in the library are:

- Food strategy
- Farm prices for food production
- Manpower in agriculture
- Food rationing and morale
- Putting dairying on a war footing
- Commodity loans and price floors for farm products
- Using our soils for war production
- Food management and inflation

The British War Economy, 1939-1943, by Mary E. Murphy. New York, professional and Technical Press, 1943. 403 p. Chapter VIII, Provisions of Food, deals with the country's agricultural program, the work of the county committees, guarantees of prices to farmers, rationing of food-stuffs, the activities of the Ministry of Foods, experience with communal feeding, and planning and rationing of food supplies. Chapter XI, Transition from War to Peace, contains statements from Great Britain and the United States on post-war planning.

Redirecting Farm Policy, by Theodore W. Schultz. New York, Macmillan, 1943. 75 p. A plea to farm leaders and the interested public to direct attention to the basic issue, that of managing our food supply, its production and distribution, instead of struggling over what the author considers the false issue of parity prices. Positive proposals on both the production and the income sides of farm policy are suggested.

Farm Management and Marketing, by V. B. Hart, M. C. Bond, and L. C. Cunningham. New York, John Wiley, 1942. 647 p. An illustrated book dealing with business problems of farmers. Included in the chapter headings are: Causes of Variation in Farm Incomes, Farm Records and Accounts, Farm Power and Equipment, Use of Land and Prices. Chapter XV devotes 30 pages to agricultural credit and chapter XXV is explanatory of farmers' cooperative business organizations.

Field Crops Management, by E. U. Fergus and Carsie Hammonds. Philadelphia, Lippincott, 1942. 600 p. Not only is material on specific crops presented, such as chapters on Corn and Hay Crops but general information is also given, such as What Crops to Grow, Soil in Relation to Crops, and Tillage.

Economics of Soil Conservation, by Arthur C. Bunce, 1942. 227 p. The thesis of this book may be expressed by the theory: When, where, how, and why is soil conservation economic? It is approached through discussion of price and land-value changes and individual and social upheavals which occur when the soil is used for production in such a way that the land itself changes. In the last two chapters, War and Conservation and The Formulation of Public Policy, one is made to realize the tremendous problems ahead in maintaining a stable economy and the conservation of the soils of the world.

The Social Economics of Agriculture, by Wilson Gee. New York, Macmillan, 1942. 720 p. This book shows the vital relationship between problems of agriculture and the prosperity and welfare of the city, and encourages development of a balanced program in the economic and social structure of our civilization. (Revision of 1932 edition)

PERSONNEL

The library is glad to introduce a new staff member, Miss Bernice Nilson, who has recently received her B. A. degree from Kansas City University. The study of law has been part of her curriculum and she is continuing this study in an evening course. Because of reduction in the library personnel, Miss Nilson will assist, for the time being, in both the legal and general sections of the library.
